

Episodes of Care

Research shows therapies are most effective when they are organized into periods of treatment, followed by therapy breaks.

Benefits of Episodic Therapy

Children improve functional abilities and acquire new skills.

When skills level off between appointments, a break from therapy creates an opportunity for the child to refresh and reenergize.

Children can continue working at home, which often sparks new progress.

Seasonal therapy helps children stay focused and motivated.

This approach also supports families with scheduling and financial challenges.

 Seasons of Care

Helping children of all abilities reach their full potential.

Seasons of Care

Works by Alternating Between Periods of Therapy and Recovery

Long-term Benefits for a Thriving and Joyful Childhood

Providing your child with episodic care is the most effective way to meet your child's needs.

START

Therapists work with you to create a plan of care to progress your child toward their goals

Together we will select one or two therapies to focus on during the Season of Care.

The program is a progressive process. As your child gains skills, make sure you're still meeting with your primary care doctor!

After 6 months in the therapy program, rotate to your home program to practice skills.

Together we can build brighter futures, one child at a time!

If returning, your child will feel energized and excited after a break.

We will all celebrate when your child meets their graduation goals!

Your child may rotate back to a new season of care with new goals after their 6-month break.
